CLC VIKING'S HOCKEY

By Allan Severson
Viking Reporter & Statistician

Fans were treated to an excellent brand of hockey January 1st to 5th, 1981 as the international tournament was held at the Camrose Recreation Centre. When everything was over late Monday night the TPS team from Turku Finland had defeated the Prince Albert Raiders 8-6 to take home the Viking Cup. The consolation finals had been played earlier in the day and the Red Deer College Kings won this game 6-3 over the Centennial College Colts from Scarborough, Ontario.

The AIK Juniors from Solna, Sweden were given fifth place by virtue of a 6-5 victory over the Camrose Lutheran College Vikings.

Each team gave something for their supporters to cheer about. The Finnish team, who before the finals had defeated Centennial College 16-3, Camrose College Vikings 11-5, and the Red Deer College Kings 8-2, showed great skills in skating and passing. We noticed they were particularly adept at picking up passes with their skates. In the final game against Prince Albert they showed a strong power play.

The Prince Albert Raiders showed why they are a top Junior team in Canada. They came to the tournament with a 22 game winning streak. The team has strong skaters and they play an aggressive brand of hockey. Peter Anholt a defenceman who was selected to the All Star team is a great nephew of the late Inanda Hoyme. The Reiferson brothers from Bashaw are also team members. This team has strong fan support and from 60 to 100 fans accompanied the team to Camrose.

Centennial College Colts won the peoples hearts by spirit and hustle. Although up against strong opposition showed class and determination. The tending efforts of Mike Trenton are remembered.

The Swedish team who lost a heart breaker to Prince Albert still showed superb skills in skating and passing.

Our own Vikings fell behind 7-1 to Finland but still hung in there to close the gap to 11-5. It is a credit to a team not to fold when behind. They lost to Centennial College and were nosed out by Sweden in a game that could have gone either way.

As we look back over the days we have many good memories. Such things are remembered as

- the presence of NHL Scouts
- the presence of Scotty Bowman

General Manager of Buffalo Sabres who spoke at the banquet and challenged players to "play for the good of the team".

The banquet was enjoyed as it featured not only an excellent meal prepared by the CLC kitchen staff, but the speakers and greetings were interesting and challenging. -Enthusiastic crowds who applauded their teams.

-The crowd at the final game cheered good plays for both sides.

-The old friendship that were renewed and the new friendships that were formed.

It was more than hockey games. It was enjoyment, enrichment, visiting, sharing, skills and insights and above all a fostering of friendship. The won and lost columns were only a part of it. When President Glen Johnson and mayor Rudy Swanson presented the trophies and medals at the conclusion of the last game there were more winners than were on the ice.

KOINONIA WEEK II

By Karen Hillmer

Hi! Welcome home. It's kind of exciting to be able to look forward to a new semester, full of new people, experiences and yes, classes. Well, maybe not all exciting but just think of the challenge! One aspect of the start of this new semester that is really exciting to look forward to is the upcoming KOINONIA WEEK II, starting this Sunday and continuing through to Wednesday night. It's going to be an experience-filled, challenging, thought provoking week full of activity, fellowship, and a heck of a lot of fun.

Koinonia Week II kicks off on Sunday night with a Coffeehouse. It's going to be a variety filled evening of entertainment featuring talent from on and off campus such as Prairie Wind, Prince Song, Discovery, and singer David Billington who is to be our major entertainer for the week. Our guest speaker, Pastor Lee Wolery, will introduce the topic for the week at the Coffeehouse and just wait until you hear the exciting M.C. ('s)!

The rest of the week is packed with chances for discovery of yourself and Christ, and with chances for fellowship. Chapel each day will be centered around the theme "Living Poetically" and there will be gathering events in 3 of the dorms on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday. The Koinonia meal, a super fantastic supper, will be served at the regular supper hour Monday night and that's one experience I'm sure you'll all be enthusiastic about! The Agape Feast on Wednesday night is also an event to anticipate with relish, with good food, good fellowship and a good chance for sharing with the body of Christ.

All in all, it looks like a great way to begin the semester. We're really hoping that you all will become involved in Koinonia Week and become excited about the way God is working on our campus. If you are planning to attend any events, why not drag along that special friend, roommate or John Doe off the street. The more the merrier, and once you've brought them, then it's God's problem to work in their lives. I've found He never lets me down!

Editorial

The new semester is upon us already and there's nothing to do about it except go with the flow. Everything seems to be going twice as fast as it was before Christmas. People are moving in and out, classes are starting, ACAC competition is starting again, the girls are coming back from Hawaii, Koinonia Week is starting, Girls' Party is only a week away and there's only 102 more days until finals start. When will the list of things to do end? Probably never, so let's get to work and get at it.

To those few who had an extended holiday welcome back. We hope you enjoyed yourselves. Better luck this year.

We the Daglital staff would like to dedicate this issue to a fine outstanding student. This man around this campus can be recognized by his irradiance smile and florescent red hair. Burt Reynolds eat your heart out, here's to Doug (I'm Available) Stewart.

The Holiday was a complete success thanks to all those who helped through the cold December nights. However, there were a few mistakes and we'd like to apologize to all those who were offended. Thanks again to everyone.

So often someone screws up by not remaining responsible for what they say or do. As a result it causes many problems in a small society such as CLC. Some one says: "I'll organize the decorations for Girls' Party" or "I'll get that article in to you at Wednesday noon" but nothing seems to get done about it. I mean we still get people who say, "Is Thursday morning too late?"

Responsibility is part of the job of being human beings. Some of us take on too many responsibilities and then we don't do a proper job of any of them. Or we sluff them off onto others. But we are afraid to say no when someone tries to add to our list of responsibilities because we may hurt someone's feelings or let them down.

It is part of our responsibility to...

- get the job done right
- say NO
- accept some responsibilities
- live our emotions
- etc.

MYRNA'S RE'MARKS

Welcome back to everyone! Also, a big welcome here to all the new students. I trust you all had a great holiday and are all ready now to plunge into the second term. It's so much fun to be home with family and friends, to catch up on what's going on at home and to tell them all about life at the college. It's also nice to come back though. It seems that when we are away we really realize and appreciate the friends we have here. Friends are a gift to each of us so appreciate the gift. You won't ever have the same group of people around you again, so enjoy them now.

As we go into the second term we have the advantage of already having been through the first. You know what did and did not work and you know what to expect. Use that knowledge to your benefit. Don't wait until midterms are here to get started and then find yourself swamped and crying "I don't have time!" Get yourself going right now and you will find things will be easier. I hope this term will be a good one for everyone. It all depends on what you do with it.

Most of us upon reading this line first think of Queen's phenomenally successful hit which last year rose to number 7 of the top 100 songs of 1980. This now almost classic line however took on a new meaning for many people just before Christmas. To some it may have been the thought running through their minds after bombing one of those onerous finals or another Oiler added to the growing injured list. But for others it took on a new and much deeper meaning. It described the end of an era that probably even Deacon did not expect to end so soon. Girls will especially remember the end of this era with a sense of melancholy and restrained grief. However, this mood is not to be shared by all members of the feminine gender. One particular young, vivacious 5'5" brunette will remember it not as an end, but rather the beginning of an era.

Some of the greatest things in the world are best kept secret. i.e. B.A.'s early morning starts, K.S.'s curly lock, Clarice's home baked bread, G.H.'s roomie, R.N.'s roomie, B.A.'s roomie, when D.S.

wasn't available and M.M.'s leftsa.

However, there comes certain times when great things and important events must be proclaimed to the people of the world. Fellow Canadians, ladies and gentlemen, faculty and staff of CLC, fellow students and Mark Yula (in case your roomie hasn't let you in on it yet) it is my duty and honor to inform you that HAROLD RUST HAS BITTEN THE DUST. Unlike the Winnipeg Blue Bombers though Rusty has hit the pay dirt. On the eighteenth day of December of the year nineteen-hundred and eighty adino domino Harold Rust became engaged to Joyce Skandrup. That's right girls as of Dec. 18/80 Harold is no longer "available". (But D.S. is!) The old adage "behind every great man their is a great woman" still holds true today. Harold and Joyce being case in point.

author's note: Even though Rusty's era may have ended others like Doug Stewart are in their prime and at the time that this is hitting the press—still available.

CLCSU Corner

Welcome Back to College! The CLCSU is glad to be back for another semester, and extends greetings to all the new students that are here. We all had a good break, and are set for what appears to be a great new year!

For those of you who haven't heard, the CLCSU has lost an important person—Nancy Dunckel, and we'll sure miss her. We have a new Social Convenor, Lyla Wyant, and we are confident that she will do a great job.

Some of the things to look forward to in 1981 include:

Radio Station—Manager Keevin Berg has been hard at work getting things ready to begin setting up.

Girls' Party—Jan. 17
It's coming up soon! So far it's shaping up to be a good time!

Winter Carnival & Snow Queen Pageant—This will be happening during the first weekend in February. Your house sports reps. will have details sometime later about the Carnival Events, but houses should begin to think about possible Snow Queen candidates from their houses. Tyr will be in charge of the pageant and Troll will look after the Snow Queen dance. More on this big weekend will come later, but keep it in mind!

Again, on behalf of the CLCSU Welcome Back, and best of luck in the coming semester!

Dear Frigg;

I am a new student here at the college and I feel lost. All the students who were here before have their own friends and groups and I feel left out. What do I do?

Dear Left;

Take a turn right, and you will see many who are in the same situation. There is a solution to this problem but the first move must come from you. If you make an effort to be friendly, other will reciprocate (i.e. respond). Try starting a conversation with a classmate and you will see that others are willing to talk also. You do have a roommate! They can be the most important person to you. I also suggest your hall seniors, can-mates and fellow dorm mates. If you're female, Doug Stewart (phone 672-8044) is available.

Frigg

Dear Frigg;

I wrote sometime ago looking for a genuine friendship—well, my inquiry paid off, in numbers. I now have a fan club that keeps phoning me several times a day. Whenever someone of "importance" tries phoning me, my line is always busy. My roommates and I are getting frustrated. What do we do?

Overloaded

Dear Loaded;

You can't have your cake and eat it too. Enjoy it while you are young and have the time. Tomorrow you may be too old and have a pile of books waiting for you on your desk. Happy Harem to you!
